SUMMARY

10th year QB who has been the primary starter in both SF and KC. Operates from both under center and the shotgun in a traditional West Coast offense. A slender body with good height and above average Athletic Ability. Excellent mechanics and footwork allow for consistent accuracy on throws. Maintains accuracy when throwing on the run. Athleticism allows him to move left or right from the pocket and still make throws. Accurate on intermediate and short throws from the pocket and on the move. Can fit the ball into tight windows over the middle and will not hold onto the ball too long. Great decision making when going through progressions. Capacity to audible or change protections at the line of scrimmage. Good eye discipline. Will not stare down receivers during plays and can move defenders with his eyes. Quickly transitions feet and hips when going through progressions or finding his check-down receiver. Maintains poise through all situations as well as capable of playing consistently in cold weather. Can extend plays working in or out of the pocket and can pick up first downs with his legs. While he has the ability to run away from defensive linemen he will not out-run pursuing LBs. Chooses to check the ball down to RBs rather than take shots downfield. Will not take many shots downfield and is not consistent on deep throws he does attempt as he lacks anticipation on deeper throws. Lacks ideal arm strength and this is displayed on attempts past the intermediate areas. Overall, a veteran starting QB with playoff experience who thrives within a West Coast offensive structure of quick throws, crossing routes, and a decent running game. Can make all short and intermediate throws as well as make adjustments and audibles at the line of scrimmage.
